By L. M. WISE

The only approval of the Tenth some old life pension plan a couple of years ago on the part of Gov.
Albritton proved a pleasant surprise to the many in this State who have passed the three score year mark and are eagerly looking forward to a life of luxuries, ease and banquets of the softest pleasures on the $200 a month, which the scheme would provide.

WE VOTE AYE

Let any one get the wrong idea, the above paragraph was not written in a spirit of levity. Personally I can view with equanimity the prospect of being a close kin to the lilacs of the field, which we are told "loil not, neither do they spin." The further description of the flower is not unpleasant—"yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." With carking care banished, as far as financial worries are concerned, it would be no difficult task to retire from gainful employment, spend my days in reading and other mental and physical diversions and array myself in habiliments which would hit the populace right in the eye when I ventured forth among my fellow men. The plan does get a stranglehold on the imagination, but being very practical-minded I incline to number it among those enterprises which fall in the category of chimerical.

CANNOT IGNORE IT

Therefore I have become reconciled to a life of labor until the night cometh "when man works no more." But out of the turmoil and strife, incident to the benevolent intentions of the good Dr. Townsend, there is bound to be definite steps taken providing protective safeguards against the terrors of old age. At the present time Congress is considering the question despite its unwillingness to stand up and face the music that music taking the form of some twenty odd millions of people, who demand consideration of the plan. The President has evidenced interest and has plainly stated that action is de-

Labor Opposes Use Of County Prison Labor

Contra Costa County Central Trades and Labor Council is at night went on record opposing the use of county prisoners on any job where an unemployed man may be used.

This action was taken after much discussion. It was decided that the Council will notify the Board of Supervisors of its action.

The Council also went on record opposing a pending bill in the State legislature which would bar the use of county hospitals to everyone except indigents.

Plans were made for a caravan to start at 9:30 March 17 from Martinez to Jackson in Amador county. This caravan of union laborers will take with them food, clothing and money for striking gold miners.

During the business meeting the Council attempted to take some action to clarify the situation existing in regards to the similarity of names of E. L. Orr, president of the council, and Paul and Violet Orr, local Communists. It was pointed out that E. L. Orr is not a member of any radical organization and a vote of confidence was given to him.

STORM HITS COAST LONG AGAIN ATTACKS FARLEY

7 CHARGES HURLED BY KING FISH

WASHINGTON, March 6.—UP—Sen. Huey P. Long, D. La., lashed out again today at what he considers the weakest link in the administration armor. He accused Postmaster General James A. Farley of attempting to thwart the indictment of a Kansas City gangster and of using his office for personal profit.

These were two of seven accusations made by the Louisiana Senator in a letter to the Senate postoffice committee which met again today and failed to agree on a resolution calling for an investigation of Farley's activities.

LETTER WRITTEN

Long's letter was in reply to one from Committee Chairman Kenneth McKelley, D. Tenn., asking Long to supply names of witnesses and outline evidence through which he indicated he could prove the serious charges which he had brought against the cabinet minister.

If the Kingfish was chastened by the smattering attack upon him yesterday by Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson in which he was called a "madman," he did not show it as he strode briskly to the Senate floor.

CHARGES TOLD

Long's letter to the postoffice committee on Farley comprised largely a resume of the accusations he had made almost daily against the tall, bald cabinet officer. Summarized they are:

White Hibiscus Fails To Appear At Mate's Trial

OAKLAND, March 6.—UP—The anticipated appearance of Helen Louise Duke, woman of the triangle that led to the killing of her young poet lover, Lamar Hollingshead, failed to materialize today in the embezzlement trial of her husband, Judson C. Duke.
Duke yesterday said that although he and his wife had not resumed marriage relations since Duke was acquitted of Hollingshead's death by an "unwritten law" jury verdict, they still were friendly and she had offered to aid his defense.

Duke is being tried for asserted misappropriation of $1,800 while he was San Leandro city milk inspector. Leo Sullivan is his attorney.

Girl Scout Leader Is Kiwanis Speaker

Mrs. E. E. Greeley, head of the Girl Scouts, was the speaker yesterday at the session of the Richmond Kiwanis Club. She stressed the need for organizations to sponsor troops and assist the girls in acquiring uniforms.
Motion pictures were shown to the club by Lee Hudson, transportation agent for the Southern Pacific company.
Bert Fox was chairman of the day.

GIVEN RIGHT OF WAY

bill increasing the bond-issuing authorization of the Home Own-000,000.

Accused

MARY YEMARVI KELLY, captain in the famed Russian Battalion of Death, women's fighting division during the World War, is on trial in Seattle charged with the first degree murder of her lover, Otto Johnson. The state is demanding the death penalty.

Legislature Slows Down Its Program

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—UP—Awaiting committee action on controversial bills, the legislature slowed down today after giving final passage to a measure assuring continuation of the current unemployment relief program.

Following action taken by the Assembly, the Senate passed unanimously a bill authorizing Governor Frank P. Merriam to borrow from special funds pending sale of the $24,000,000 unemployment relief bond issue.

BORROW MILLIONS

be necessary to borrow $10,000,

Kamb Funeral To Be Held Friday

Funeral services will be held at Bethany Lutheran Church in Berkeley at 1:30 Friday afternoon for the late Miss Ellene Kamb, 20, who died at her home, 2514 Geynor avenue early yesterday morning. Rev.
Vern G. Ogran will officiate.
Deceased was a native of San Francisco and had lived here for the past 19 years.
She leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Oscar Kamb and the following sisters and brothers: Hazel Kamb, living at home; Mrs. William Johnson, Carl R. Kamb, and Edward Kamb, of Richmond, and Walter Kamb of Berkeley.
Rites are under the direction of the Wilson and Kratzer chapel.

ment of exploding bombs.

DOCTOR AIDS DEFENSE OF D. LAMSON

SAN JOSE, March 6.—UP—The lethargic tempo of David Lamson's second murder trial, retarded for nearly three weeks by jury selecting and questioning of two surgeons, quickened tonight under pressure of bitter wrangling by opposing counsel, and promises of forthcoming sensations.

Away to a slow start this morning, the proceedings hit a faster pace as attorneys exchanged personal remarks, and Dr. Milton Saler, autopsy surgeon, was dismissed from the stand after three consecutive days of questioning.

DOCTOR QUESTIONED

Dr. Blake C. Wilbur, son of Dr.
Ray Lyman Wilbur, Stanford University president and former secretary of interior, was the third witness summoned to the stand.
He was excused after offering testimony following lines of that given by Dr. Saler. Both men said the blows which killed Alton Thorpe Lamson could have been administered with a piece of iron pipe, as the state contends, but admitted possibility that fatal skull fractures might have been caused by one blow—such as would be suffered in falling—as the defense insists.

Tomorrow, the courtroom scene will shift back to the Lamson's Stanford campus cottage, where Mrs. Lamson's nude body was found slumped in her bathtub on Memorial Day, 1933.

Masonic Funeral Services Are Set For Howard Flint

Masonic funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning from the Wilson and Kratzer chapel for the late Howard M. Flint, former Standard Oil official who died at his Berkeley home on Tuesday night.

McKinley Lodge F. & A. M., of which Flint was a member, will have charge of the services. Cremation will be at Berkeley.
Deceased had served with the company for 29 years before retiring in 1933. He was a native of Oakland and was 57 years of age.
Flint entered the employ of the company on December 1, 1904, and was connected with the wharf department and later the barrel house. He eventually was transferred to the shipbuilding department as shipping agent. On July 2, 1917, he was named assistant cashier at the refinery, succeeding H. G.
Young, and shortly after was named as cashier, a position he held until May 16, 1932, when he was transferred to the San Francisco office in the manufacturing auditor's department. He was retired on a pension on December 1, 1932.

Speed Record Set By English Train

LONDON, March 6.—UP—A seven-year old steam locomotive driven by a 61-year old engineer smashed all world's records for steam trains early today when it reached a speed of 108 miles per hour in a run from Newcastle to Kings Cross.

Engineer William Sparbatt held his six coach train at 100.6 miles per hour for a distance of 12 miles during the run, reputedly the greatest distance ever covered by a steam train at such speed.
The 268 mile trip was made in 3 hours 52 minutes at an average of 69 miles per hour.

jamin F. Heintzleman, veteran est Service, today was named deputy assistant NRA administrator

Supervisors At Conclave Hit Merriam Road Program

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—UP—
Organized opposition to Governor Frank P. Merriam's proposal to place all roads in the State highway system developed today on the heels of a split between the Governor and State Controller Ray L.
Riley.

County supervisors, gathered here from all parts of the State, united in attacking the plan to deprive them of jurisdiction over more than 60,000 miles of roads and highways.

COOL RECEPTION

They gave the Governor a cool reception, but applauded enthusiastically when Riley questioned the advantage of placing all roads under control of a politically appointed highway commission.

"While I have no doubt of the sincerity of the present administration in urging the consolidation and while I feel that Governor Merriam will always treat the counties fairly," Riley said, "I cannot support the Governor's plan."

OPEN HOSTILITIES

"I can conceive of a future Governor, hungry for power, administering the highway system in such way that counties refusing to support him would have no work done on their roads."

Open hostility greeted the Gov-

City Stores To Hold Big Style Shows

Richmond merchants, with one eye cocked toward the heavens that opened up yesterday and let loose a rain storm coupled with a heavy cold, were preparing today for their annual spring style show.

Unveiling of windows will be held at 7:30 this evening by all local stores, with the latest spring fashions placed on display for the approval of the local residents.

Following the custom inaugurated last year, an automobile show will be held on Macdonald avenue this evening, weather permitting. David M. Rose is chairman of the evening. Last night Rose stated that the auto show will be pulled off if it rains.

On Friday and Saturday open house will be held by the local merchants. The public has been invited to visit the local stores during these two days and inspect the latest merchandise.

DAMAGE IS REPORTED IN HEAVY GALE

Rain swept Richmond yesterday bringing with it one of the heaviest wind storms experienced in many years.

Very little damage was reported in the city proper, although numerous street lights were out and out of commission by the raising winds.
A flag pole at the city hall was blown down while the Pacific Gas and Electric company reported that a small window was blown out at its garage at Eleventh street and Russell avenue.

The heavy winds, blowing in from the sea, brought gusts of rain that flooded gutters and storm sewers.

More than 20 of an inch of rain fell yesterday to five o'clock. It was estimated, bringing the seasonal total up to more than 50 of an inch above the normal mark. Heavy downpours after that hour increased the precipitation record.

More rain is anticipated today, with clearing weather this evening and Friday.

WARNINGS POSTED

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—UP—Storm warnings were posted tonight as one of the heaviest wind and rain storms of the season, lashing the Pacific Coast area from Point Conception to Puget Sound, impending practically all marine traffic and damaging electric service in some areas.

Rain and wind was general over both the coast and interior valley regions, with the weather bureau forecasts indicating continued rain tonight.

HIGH WINDS

Wind velocities as high as 28 miles an hour were recorded in down town San Francisco, and reached 45 miles an hour at Point Reyes the other beach points.

Commercial fishing was halted in the bay region, and one large San Francisco office building window was shattered by the high winds.

Heavy snow falls over the mountains halted all airplane travel between Sacramento and Reno, Nev., and between Redding, Calif., and Medford, Oregon.

Americans Said To Be Victims Of Gold Robbery

LONDON, March 6.—UP—A $97, 000 gold robbery at Croydon airport in which Americans were said to have been the victims provided police with a mystery tonight.

The gold was taken from a strong-room at the airport during the night. It was in three boxes, one containing three gold bars and two others containing American gold pieces and English sovereigns.

The gold reportedly was to have been flown to Paris for sale today in behalf of a group of Americans.

DRIVERLESS CAR HITS TRUCK AT WEST SIDE

A car owned by Mrs. P. Goldstein, 415 Macdonald avenue, rolled from its parking place on Coltage avenue near Santa Fe avenue at the west side yesterday, careened down the avenue and crashed into a truck driven by Melvin Walker, of San Francisco.

Both vehicles were badly damaged in the crash. The driver of the truck was not injured. Mrs.
Goldstein was calling on friends when the accident happened.

Ex-Social Service Director Is Charged With Embezzlement

Shortly after midnight this morning the Lewis grand jury returned two indictments against Mrs. Ruth W. Mc-Cord, who had been director of the County Social Welfare department for the past five years and who was recently deposed.

The charges in the indictments are reported to be embezzlement. One of the indictments is said to contain two counts and the other three counts.

SPECTATORS INVITED OUT

When the grand jurors filed into the courtroom of Superior Judge Thomas D. Johnson, those who were not members of the secret body were asked to retire. The spectators were newspapermen, and they gracefully withdrew.

ACTION ANTICIPATED

The courtroom doors were locked, and the charges were then presented to Judge Johnson, who is the presiding judge, by Foreman William Lewis.

Everyone anticipated some action as the judge, his clerk and stenographer had waited at the hall of records all evening.

ON SECRET FILE

The papers were ordered placed on the secret file, turned over to Deputy County Clerk Jerry Casey, and locked in the vaults.

It is understood that Mrs. McCord will be served with the indictments this morning, and an opportunity given her to arrange for bail.

REFUSES TO TESTIFY

Mrs. McCord, was the last witness before the inquisi-torial body, remained inside the jury room but about two minutes, and then hurriedly left and retired. It is understood that she stood on her constitutional rights and refused to testify on the ground that any testimony might tend to incriminate her.

DETAILS KEPT SECRET

Just what are the details of the embezzlement charges could not be learned, but it is stated they revolve around county warrants, diamonds, and alleged misappropriation of funds.

HOW THE VOTE STOOD

From reliable authority it was learned that there were 18 members of the grand jury present, and on the vote, there were 13 for the indictments, four against, and one not voting.

RUMORS LONG CURRENT

Rumors concerning the welfare department have been current for the past two years, and different grand juries have investigated, but without any action.

COMMITTEE HAS BEEN BUSY

The social service committee of the present grand jury took up its work of investigating the department about three months ago, and many witnesses have been heard in connection with the matter, but it was not until an early hour this morning that any action was taken.
This committee is composed of Archie Campbell (chairman), Mrs. Frances Lods, Mrs. E. A. Smith, Lars P. Olsen, and Mrs. F. A. Buchanan.

MRS. JACKSON CENTRAL FIGURE

Back of the action that was taken this morning is Mrs. Ida Jackson, a woman 85 years of age, her property at El Cerrito, and diamonds that are reputed to be of the value of about $2,000. Mrs. Jackson for some time has been a recipient of county aid through the social welfare department.

Mrs. Jackson, since her return from Colorado has been at a local hotel under the supervision of the social welfare committee of the grand jury. Although it cannot be said she was kept incommunicado, the hotel management was instructed to allow no one, except members of the committee to talk with her.

D. A. QUIZZES WITNESSES

The session of the grand jury started promptly at 7 o'clock last evening, and from that time until it adjourned this morning there was a constant stream of witnesses who were interrogated by District Attorney Francis P. Healey and his deputy, Rex Borer.

Mrs. Teresa Russell, the proprietor of the Cathleen Cafe in this city was one of the witnesses. She told of Mrs. Ida Jackson and Mrs. Lora Booth eating dinner at her eating house the night that the woman took the train for Moffatt, Colorado. It is understood she declined to testify that the only liquid food she had was a cup of tea.

EL CERRITO NEWS

SHOW FAITH IN EL CERRITO REALTY

Martin Sooter of O street in El Cerrito has just purchased the property at 244 Center street thru the M. F. Ralston Real Estate company. Sooter has already found a suitable tenant for the place which he purchased as an investment and not for a home. He has made several similar purchases recently.

Mr. Sooter displays a remarkable business faith. When times get good again, and real estate prices go sky high, all the rest of us, who should be purchasing now, will make a grand rush to buy as is the great American habit. Then Mr. Sooter can, if he wishes, sell those places, he has picked up recently to the rest of us at many times what he paid for them while the rest of us were afraid to buy. Old P. T. Barnum was right about us after all. We like to be humbugged. We even humbug ourselves.

MR. ROOSEVELT DENIES PLANS TO CUT DOLLAR

WASHINGTON, March 6.—UP—The dollar has not yet reached a level sufficient to relieve the country's debt burden, President Roosevelt said today. He denied he contemplated further devaluation.

Asked at his press conference whether commodity prices had been cut, Mr. Roosevelt said he felt the dollar still was out of line with the country's debt structure, although great progress had been made in readjustment.

This led to a question as to whether further devaluation was in prospect. The President held up his hands, laughed, and shook his head.

The administration has sought to readjust the economic situation by reducing the volume of debt, and by raising prices so that it will be easier for debtors to make profits and pay their obligations.

The price rising campaign has been markedly successful in agriculture, with food costs rising sharply, particularly meats. This is attributed to the AAA crop curtailment program and to the drought. In other lines, however, the rise has not been so great.

The commodity price index of the Bureau of Labor statistics, based on a 1925 average level of 100, stood at 79.6 percent on March 2, compared with an extreme low of 60.2 two years ago when the Roosevelt administration took office.

KEEPS MUM

The President gave no indication as to how much further he believes the price-raising process should go.

With the dollar standing at 59.06 percent of its previous gold value, Mr. Roosevelt has Congressional authority to devalue it 50 percent. According to all present indications, however, he will retain that margin for "trading" purposes whenever the world monetary situation seems ripe for stabilization agreements with other nations.

WALL STREET IS JITTERY OVER MONEY

NEW YORK, March 6.—UP—Inability to guess what, if anything, President Roosevelt intends to do about money left security market operators highly nervous tonight.

Momentarily operators thought they had a clue when Mr. Roosevelt said the dollar had not been adjusted sufficiently in relation to the nation's debt burden. To Wall Streeters that meant one thing—further devaluation of the dollar—and they shot share prices up fractions to 5 points and U. S. Government bonds down around one-half point.

It was not a surprising interpretation. Decline of the dollar in relation to gold and gold currencies had led to belief devaluation might come. The President has the power to devalue the dollar to 50 per cent of its former value by pushing the American gold price to $41.34. The present American gold price is $35 an ounce making the dollar 59.06 percent of its old parity.

But the President's statement did not intimate devaluation, a White House attaché said, and Wall Street fell back once again to confusion. The earlier increase in shares was erased in furious trading and rattled only slightly from the loss. But Government bond traders did not push those prices up and the market closed lower. Share trading was 1,290,000 shares and bond trading on the New York Stock Exchange was $26,690,000, of which $15,590,000 was in the Government division, the heaviest trading since August 9 in bonds.

GREEK PLANES BOMB REBELS IN SEA TOWN

ATHENS, March 6.—UP—Thirty Government planes today rained bombs on the Macedonian airport town of Cavalla, created wide destruction and cracked the morale of rebels and inhabitants alike.

Under the heavy concentration of royal troops, the rebels appeared to be losing a losing battle on all fronts, although they were aided by heavy floods in some sectors, which prevented rapid movement of the Government's artillery.

SHIPS ARE SENT

Three government warships arrived at Salonika, and were greeted enthusiastically by the townspeople, according to the Government.

Scores of soldiers were reported killed on both sides, in a clash between the opposing forces in Candia.

The Straton valley, inundated after continuous rains, became a veritable sea today and the Government was unable to carry out in full its program of concentrating heavy artillery in that sector. Some guns, however, were sent eastward, and a general offensive was expected within a few hours.

SUCCESS REPORTED

It was announced officially that General Glibistiras had followed up successes during the light skirmishing in western Thrace, and had pushed the rebel troops far to the west. He was endeavoring to light the encircling movement which appears to hold them in the jaws of a pincer.

Two concentration camps have been established at Sparta and Tripolis, replacing the camp at Thebes.

REBELS SOUGHT

Search of known supporters of Eleutherios Venzelas, head of the revolution, was said to have revealed quantities of arms and ammunition, which the authorities confiscated. Thousands of suspected rebels are now under arrest.

Damage from the civil war already has reached $1,200,000, according to best estimates in addition to great sums expended in ammunition.

TWO FEATURES TO BE SEEN AT FOX TODAY

Two ace features are on tap for Richmond film lovers at the FOX theater today.

Jack Benny, star of the radio and stage, is seen in "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round" as the main feature of the double bill. The second film is "The President Vanishes."

In addition to Jack Benny, who has the role of a master of ceremonies aboard a palatial transatlantic liner, the passenger list is equally tangle. It includes Gene Raymond, Nancy Carroll, Frank Parker, Patsy Kelly, the Boswell Sisters, Jimmy Grier and his orchestra, Sydney Howard, Mitz Green, Sid Silvers, Sidney Blackmer, William Lloyd, Shirley Grey, Ralph Morgan, Sam Hardy and Joan Sargent.

The entire action of the story takes place on board ship on a trip to Europe and reveals a romantic love story set against the background of mystery and interspersed with many musical sequences, in which Frank Parker and the Boswell Sisters sing to the melodious rhythms of Jimmy Grier and his orchestra.

"The President Vanishes" is a sensational story, visualizing the kidnapping of the President of the United States, and what would happen if such an event occurred. Arthur Byron heads a cast of 22 film favorites including Edward Arnold, Andy Devine, Paul Kelly, Peggy Conklin, Irene Franklin, Osgood Perkins, Robert McWade, Edward Ellis and Janet Beecher.

Fishermen's Dream

THE HEART of any angler would glow if he succeeded in making the catch that Mrs. Jack Marrow, right, made in Pyramid Lake, Nev. It is the first cutthroat trout of the season, and weighed in at 32 pounds. Mrs. Katherine Firey helps Mrs. Marrow hold her prize catch.

THE broker had made a quick one-day trip to Albany, and finding himself with time to spare for the return journey, he decided to come back by boat. His wife, who had also left the city for a visit to her parents in New Jersey had announced that she would return by a morning train and would reach home at 10 A. M. As the night boat was scheduled to dock at 7 o'clock, it seemed safe to assume that the river traveler would get home before his wife and in time to reach his office at the usual hour.

Having left a call for 6:30, the broker awoke to hear the old fog horn blasting away lugubriously. For a moment he thought, himself back along the Newfoundland banks, an illusion quickly dispelled by the looks of the cabin.

Hurrying to dress, he rushed to the deck, only to be told that the boat was anchored somewhere in the North river and that the trip could not be resumed until the heavy fog lifted.

AS TIME went by the matter became serious. The river boats carry no wireless equipment and there was absolutely no way in which the passengers could notify those ashore of their fate. At 10 o'clock he became frantic; his wife would have returned only to learn that she would naturally call the office, where the same message would be transmitted to her. After which, there would be hysterics, call to friends, and finally, to the police.

Appeals to captain, purser or crew proved unavailing and the traveler, together with several fellow passengers, was at his wit's end. The fact that he was within easy swimming distance of shore was almost a temptation to jump into the water. But even the trouble he could foresee, both at home and in the office, serious as it was, was not sufficient to attempt so desperate a step.

FINALLY, after a morning spent in anguish and worry, the passengers at last saw the fog lift and vanish, and the boat got under way again. It reached its pier some 12 o'clock and everybody hurried ashore. The broker dashed to a telephone and called his home.

His wife's voice was apologetic, and before he could say more than hello, she started to explain why she had been late. Her train had been delayed by a snow storm, and she had just come home.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Wire-lapping and tall tales of espionage among Government bureaus used to bring smiles of incredulity. They are no longer.

Under the New Deal there is probably more espionage than at any time since war days; perhaps even more—of a different nature—than there was then.

For New Deal espionage is chiefly intra-New Deal—different Government officials spying on each other.

It is well to remember that a beautiful mortuary does not mean high prices, as this firm proves. With all the refinements and comforts to be found here, charges are never higher than the smallest incomes can easily afford. By including everything in one plainly marked price, we have made it possible for every family to make an appropriate selection without financial hardship.

mandated; but his idea of provision to the aged with an allotment of $15 a month does not evoke any enthusiastic response from those who would be benefitted. In fact, the President has lately sidestepped the matter with adroitness and has issued a pronouncement to the effect that old age pensions are matters of State and not Federal jurisdiction and obligation. But like the ghost of the proposition refused to play dead, the Townsend, or some other plan with the same objective in view, perhaps on a financial scale of less pretentiousness is certain of enactment sooner or later.

YOUNG IN FAVOR
If the demand came solely from proposed beneficiaries, then, perhaps, Congress could perhaps afford to view the proposal with the same kind of an eye used by a banker on the score of a loan—cold and clammy. Strange as it may seem, millions of the signers of the petitions are young men, those who have just passed the 30-year mark. As one explained to me, a tax to finance the proposal, would in reality be no heavier than his life insurance premium, and being paid in small amounts on the purchase of commodities would not be the burden that the payment of a lump sum involves.

Certainty of a secure, old age, he said, would more than counterbalance any expenditure required. So it seems that the young are giving consideration to the problem and Congressmen, who always have their ear to the ground are not going to incur the displeasure of a sixth of the population by ignoring their expressed desires.

I do not contend that the Townsend plan should be adopted, but I do say that the question, now that it is to the forefront, cannot be shelved with impunity.

As California is the home of Dr. Townsend and as thousands upon thousands of Californians have adopted him as their leader, I can truthfully say that whatever the animating motive of the governor, he made no mistake in placing the seat of his approval on the project.

MRS. SIMMS IS HONORED WITH PARTY

English Answer Nazi Protests On Arming

LONDON, March 6.—Great Britain made a double-barreled reply today to Germany's passionate outcry against her recent "white paper" criticizing the Reich's "militarism."

The government announced naval estimates of $295,000,000, and the projected building of 28 new warships.

It refused to withdraw the critical statements made in the sensational document which resulted in the postponement of what was to have been a pacification conference between Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary.

TENSION INCREASES
The tension that already grips Europe was increased not only by the announced British plan for rearmament, but by indications that other countries would join in the armament race.

France announced a project for building a line battleship and two destroyers of moderate size, at a cost of $48,000,000 with another second line battleship planned for 1937.

DEFENSE BUDGET
Spain announced a $61,925,000 national defense project, which will include the building of 12 submarines, 12,800-ton torpedo boats, and a host of motor launches, torpedo launchers, mine sweepers and other auxiliary craft.

Berlin still seethes with anger over the British declaration that the Reich was rearming rapidly, and that this evidence of militarism necessitated a heavy armament program for other nations.

SOLONS DUEL
Simon and George Lansbury, the Labor Party leader, duelled in comments over the suggestion that the cabinet should "withdraw" from friendly negotiations to issue so unfriendly a document.

"I certainly shall not," Sir John declared.

"But do you think it conducive to friendly negotiations to issue so unfriendly a document?" Lansbury retorted.

"I daresay that point will enter into the discussion," Simon replied.

"DIPLOMATIC COLD"
Seymour Coombs, another Laborite, entered the discussion by declaring that Sir John should go to Moscow "where they haven't lost their voices."

Loud laughter followed the suggestion, which referred to Hitler's "diplomatic cold" which was the excuse offered for cancelling his engagement with the British foreign secretary.

Sir John did say to Lansbury, however, that he was in communication with the German government over a possible date for the postponed meeting, and said with a straight face that the meeting had been cancelled on the orders of Hitler's physicians.

Record Is Made On Flight From L. A. To Mexico

MEXICO CITY, March 6.—Up-land Andrews, veteran Los Angeles transport pilot, completed a record-breaking flight from Los Angeles today when he landed at the Civil Airport at 4:10 P. M.

His time for the 1670 mile hop was eight hours, nine minutes, and two hours and six minutes faster than the previous best mark.

In his Vultee transport plane, Andrews carried five passengers, including General Vultee, the designer of the plane, and his bride, the former Miss Patricia Col. Julian Vela, Mexican army officer; Police Chief James E. Davis of Los Angeles; and Arthur Holliday, Los Angeles businessman.

It was the same ship in which Andrews recently set a new Los Angeles-Washington, D. C., record of 10 hours, 22 minutes.

SALARIES PAID UTILITY FIRM OFFICERS TOLD

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—UP—The California State Railroad Commission today reported to the State Assembly a list of the 1934 expenses and salaries of $5,000 or more for 60 California public utilities.

The list was submitted in answer to an Assembly resolution requesting the figures.

For the Pacific Gas and Electric company the report showed that President A. F. Hockman received the highest salary, $69,700, plus $1,573 expense money.

First Vice President Paul Downing of the company received a salary of $36,635 and Second Vice President J. F. Hogan $29,788.

Fifty-seven officers and employees received $5,000 or more, their salaries totaling $593,389. Total donations by the company during the year were $103,350, of which $21,000 went to charitable institutions and similar organizations, dues, contributions to industrial, trade associations and clubs totaled $81,549.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company reported payment of salaries totaling $874,585 to 78 employees and officers receiving more than $5,000 each for the year. Of this sum $586,894 was applicable to California. H. P. Pillsbury received a salary of $65,008. Donations, dues, contributions and subscriptions in California totaled $43,729, and legal and attorneys' fees, $44,776.

Attorney and legal fees cost the P. G. & E. $119,212.

Gassed Nurse Passes 200th Hour In Coma

PASADENA, March 6.—UP—Verna Hixon, 32-year-old nurse, passed her 200th hour of unconsciousness tonight without any sign of awakening.

"There is no change," said Dr. John P. Briceton, head of the Pasadena hospital where Miss Hixon has been confined since she became unconscious from carbon monoxide poisoning February 23.

Dr. Briceton himself was gassed by "constant" attacks of the gas and Miss Hixon seems slightly weaker, if anything. Every day renders her system more debilitated, due to disintegration of nerve centers, making complete recovery—even if she does awaken—more remote, he said.

The case is one of the rarest in medical annals. Miss Hixon was treated for two days for carbon monoxide poisoning and her system apparently was cleared of the poison. The effects, however, left her in an "anesthetic" coma.

LUCKY TURN
IDAHO FALLS, Idaho.—UP—Although their car turned over twice, seven people riding in it were practically unharmed, the only inconvenience being that the baby was awakened, and one of the lady passengers broke her glasses.

Rat Bite Fever Is Not Common in This Country, But May Happen at Any Time

A WEEK or two ago a young man of our city died who had been sick for eight years from the results of a rat bite fever. He did not die of rat bite fever, but of a heart affection that had resulted from a blood poisoning following the bite. Rat bite fever is a rather uncommon disease in the United States though it is quite well known in Japan, China, and the East Indies, and is occurring more frequently in our seaboard cities.

It is caused by a spirillum which infects rats, guinea pigs, and squirrels. It is found in the mouth and on the teeth of the diseased animal and is carried to other animals or humans by biting.

It may seem useless to write about a disease that is not common, but it may occur any place where rats abound. If recognized early it is easily cured, but if neglected may prove fatal. It is very difficult to diagnose, because after the bite is received the wound heals up without any trouble and disappears.

After a period of fifteen to forty days, the healed scar suddenly becomes inflamed, the tissues around it become swollen, it is covered with little blisters, and the scar may ulcerate. From the inflamed area, there are red streaks running up the arm or leg with hardened glands in the tissues, and extending up to the glands of the arm pit or groin.

THERE is headache, sick stomach, extreme weakness, followed by chills and fever. Pain is present in the joints and along the muscles of the affected parts. Often pain is present all over the body. The fever rises rapidly to 101 or 102 degrees F. and within two or three days reaches 104 degrees or higher. It remains high for two or three more days, when it suddenly drops to normal with severe sweating and prostration.

An eruption of purplish spots or blisters appears on the chest and arms, and the patient may suffer from hives. The temperature remains normal for two or three days and all the symptoms subside. Then suddenly the process starts over and all the symptoms reappear, to again subside and recur in a more or less regular manner.

Each attack is less severe than before and the period between attacks grows longer. There may be ten or twelve of these attacks of fever, pain, and swelling, lasting over a period of a number of months and it has been known to recur for eight or ten years.

It acts very much like relapsing fever, but the inflammation around the original wound and the swelling and pain in the joints and of the glands does not occur in relapsing fever. The diagnosis can be determined positively by microscopic examination of the fluid from the blisters or infected glands or from the patient's blood. The blood may be injected into a guinea pig or white rat to see if the animal contracts the trouble.

DEATH does not usually result from the disease, but because of the long continued attacks of fever, the patient is so weakened and emaciated that other diseases may obtain a foothold and death occur as the result of such complications.

In Japan, the death rate from the disease is about 10 per cent, but in the United States it is much less, though the long continued disability is quite serious. The treatment is successful if used early and before the kidneys or heart are badly damaged. One or two injections of Salvarsan (arsphenamine) or similar drug will usually cure. Longer treatment is sometimes necessary. Twelve to 24 food and sunshine will complete the cure. At the time of the initial bite, the wound should be cleaned and cauterized.

QUESTIONS: Mr. A. asks how to determine whether a pulmonary disease is active or not, or rather how to determine when the disease is stopped. In an active tuberculosis, there is a rise in temperature at a time during the day, usually at 3 P.M. The morning temperature is apt to be lower than the afternoon temperature. A microscopic examination of the sputum, or the presence or absence of the bacillus, or an X-ray picture of the lungs gives the more accurate information concerning the extent and activity of the disease.

Guide to Charm SOFT, NATURAL WAVES ALWAYS IN GOOD TASTE

By JACQUELINE HUNT

CHOOSING the correct hair style is somewhat more difficult than choosing a new evening gown. You must study yourself carefully in the mirror and decide if your nose turns up or whether it is just a little bit longer than it should be. You should notice the shape of your head—especially in the back. Then confer with your barber or hair stylist before you have any snipping done.

Your coiffure should improve your profile and give your head a pleasing contour. Usually it is a good idea to have the hair combed skillfully, especially now that hats are perched high on the head and the movement of the hair is all toward the front of the head. Often there is a row of curls high on the head parallel to the part and showing under the tilt-up brim of your hat.

Soft, natural waves are always in order and the hair must be in excellent condition to show them, even though you get an expensive permanent. We have emphasized the importance of brushing, but you should also pay more attention to your shampooing. A good shampoo takes at least half an hour and it should include a vigorous brushing to free the scalp from bits of foreign material and a scalp massage to arouse the circulation.

If you want a hot oil shampoo you had better allow a full hour. If your hair is shampooed at a salon, be sure that your operator doesn't just "dab" your head with hot water, then start the shampoo, or your hair will be dull looking and stiff and hard to manage afterward.

To insure the perfect cleanliness of your hair, have the juice of two lemons added to every quart of water to cut away all of the soap that has escaped the other rinsings and any stray bits of oil. Your hair will be glossier and more easily managed after this treatment, and it will be full of sparkling highlights.

Learn to roll your own curls and you can keep your hair lovely and well-groomed at all times. There are all sorts of new gadgets for this purpose. One is a little curler that clamps on with a spring like a miniature clothes iron. You roll up the curls, one at a time, slip in a bobby pin and remove the curler, then go on to the next. Don't try to have too many curls, but do not try to make those you have too large. Neglect little curls look better.

There are new bobby pins, too, that come in colors to match your hair. They are long or short, curved or straight to suit your individual needs. These pins have smooth round points and a "pebbled" finish that makes them almost invisible among your locks.

And for well-groomed hair do not forget the light fragrant lotions that coat the waves into place and serve as a dressing for your hair. Brilliantine is also a necessity for well-groomed hair.

QUESTIONS: "My beauty problem is a big one. My hair and face are nice, but my whole appearance is spoiled because I am awkward and angular. This makes me very self-conscious and unhappy. Can you help me?"—Pearl.

It is possible that you look awkward and angular because you are underweight and a few extra pounds would round out your figure and make you look better. I have a little booklet on dieting to gain weight if you would care to have it. In addition, I would advise exercises. Walking and ordinary ballroom dancing are grand aids to graceful carriage and poise. If it is possible for you to join a "gym" class or swim, these would also help.

Dr. Karl Arnstein, Designer of Macon, Remains Loyal to Lighter-Than-Air Craft

MANY persons, in and out of public life, now feel that the building of airships is a waste of time and money, with the specter of the sunken Macon still in their minds. But Dr. Karl Arnstein, who designed the Macon, and the Akron too, can give you many arguments in favor of the lighter-than-air ships. If anyone can champion the airship it is Dr. Arnstein, for he has designed more than seventy large ships of the Zeppelin type and others. He is a native of Prague, Bohemia. His father was a poverty-stricken artist, and the son seemed intent upon following his father's footsteps. Karl studied art and obtained a scholarship at the Prague University of Fine Arts. Something was wrong, however, he was too fond of mathematics for an artist. Therefore he went over to the Prague University Technical School, and made use of both his gifts. He soon became known as a

Big Season Is Forecast for Blouses, With Very Feminine Models the Rule

FOR THE JUNIOR WARDROBE

By IRENE VAIL

New York—That it is a tremendous blouse year is an old story, but it's as true a one today as it was last month. With the exception of sports clothes and regulation shirts, which are always in good taste, with certain costumes, blouses are distinctly feminine, and run largely to lingerie effects, either for a detail or for the blouse itself.

In the memory of the younger set there has never been such an array of neckwear—all designed for flattery. There are white, or pastel, froth types, as fluffy and frivolous as you like—and it looks as though that was pretty frivolous and very fluffy. There are the stunning revers—postered revers, they are called—and not ineptly. They do a great deal for a slightly jaded suit or sport. Don't make the mistake of thinking the revers belong only to tailored clothes. Don't you forget Lanvin's lovely evening dress with its enormous stitched revers? Also her repeated use of metal revers for evening? There are the cornucopia revers, too, a rolled or doubled-over, sort that provides a grand way to introduce another color.

But it is the lacy, valentine-like neckwear that pleases most of us best. The independent sort may be added to a dress costume, after which it is no longer drab. Sketched today, in the misses' model, quilting and lace combine in a jacket frock. The blouse is of lace, the jacket quilted taffeta and the slashed skirt of crepe in black and pink. A younger set reverts to coat with broad lapels and deep collar which is distinguished by the placement of large double buttons at the fitted waistline. The blouse in mousseline de sole has tailored collar, jewel buttons and pleated cape.

At right of the column a monotone pattern distinguishes these lounging and sleeping garments, the model at top favoring a tunic with vestee yoke. The one-piece pajama below is of the patterned fabric with revers of plain material.

MONOTONES

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

TOMMY's mother describes his friends as a "motley crew." She doesn't know where he gets them. "That boy has absolutely no judgment in picking friends." There are some nice-looking, well-dressed boys there, of the kind I'd like to have him associate with. But none of these are ever among the boys he brings home. From a time he was a boy, Tommy has been with the class dunces. But promotion, thank heaven, put an end to that; the other was left back. Now he has taken up with the sons of the biggest pushybody in town. How I hate that woman! Believe me, I'm going to do everything I can to break up the combination."

is a mother who is an attraction. This means that the other child, no matter who he is, has something interesting to offer your child by way of friendship. The class dunces, for example, may have ability to work with their hands. He made a scooter for himself; now he may be working on a dog house. Your child admires his skill. He marvels at the way the other child can take a discarded egg box and turn it into something useful. He hangs around watching, sometimes assisting. "I don't know what you see in that boy," you scold. "You'll get dumb, too, from playing with him."

Mother is treading on dangerous ground here. There is something sacred and soul-satisfying in the friendship. That other boy is Tommy's hero. No child is won by maligning his heroes. It would be wiser, by far, to fathom what your child sees in the other. For you may rest assured that he sees something to admire, some one phase of the other's personality which you do not or cannot find.

By bringing our prejudices into children's friendships we retard their social development. A child learns how to evaluate people from choosing his own friends. He judges according to his own standards. Why not find out what his standards are. You'll be surprised by the innocence of his intentions.

Short Cuts

Any homemaker with the double responsibility of cleaning house and looking after baby will appreciate one of those ivory-enamelled baby carrying baskets, with fibre, braided top and bottom, and riveted handles. She merely picks him up in it as she goes from room to room, places him where she can keep an eye on him, and keep him cheered by the sound of her voice.

If a dress is to be remodeled it has to be ripped carefully. Use a sharp knife or pointed scissors to rip apart seams. Be sure that you do not stretch the material, especially at the neck and armholes.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "How can I bleach rusty-looking elbows? Mine are black and rough all the time, although I use lotion on them every time I use it on my hands."—M. J.

Try scrubbing your rusty elbows with powdered pumice stone, blended with lemon juice. Leave it on the elbows for a few minutes, then rinse away with clear, tepid water and massage the arms and elbows with a rich, softening cream. Leave lemon juice on your elbows overnight occasionally to speed up the bleaching.

QUESTION: "My beauty problem is a big one. My hair and face are nice, but my whole appearance is spoiled because I am awkward and angular. This makes me very self-conscious and unhappy. Can you help me?"—Pearl.

It is possible that you look awkward and angular because you are underweight and a few extra pounds would round out your figure and make you look better. I have a little booklet on dieting to gain weight if you would care to have it. In addition, I would advise exercises. Walking and ordinary ballroom dancing are grand aids to graceful carriage and poise. If it is possible for you to join a "gym" class or swim, these would also help.

Dr. Karl Arnstein, Designer of Macon, Remains Loyal to Lighter-Than-Air Craft

MANY persons, in and out of public life, now feel that the building of airships is a waste of time and money, with the specter of the sunken Macon still in their minds. But Dr. Karl Arnstein, who designed the Macon, and the Akron too, can give you many arguments in favor of the lighter-than-air ships. If anyone can champion the airship it is Dr. Arnstein, for he has designed more than seventy large ships of the Zeppelin type and others. He is a native of Prague, Bohemia. His father was a poverty-stricken artist, and the son seemed intent upon following his father's footsteps. Karl studied art and obtained a scholarship at the Prague University of Fine Arts. Something was wrong, however, he was too fond of mathematics for an artist. Therefore he went over to the Prague University Technical School, and made use of both his gifts. He soon became known as a

You and Your Child BOY PICKS PALS ON BASIS OF HIS OWN JUDGMENT

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

is a mother who is an attraction. This means that the other child, no matter who he is, has something interesting to offer your child by way of friendship. The class dunces, for example, may have ability to work with their hands. He made a scooter for himself; now he may be working on a dog house. Your child admires his skill. He marvels at the way the other child can take a discarded egg box and turn it into something useful. He hangs around watching, sometimes assisting. "I don't know what you see in that boy," you scold. "You'll get dumb, too, from playing with him."

Mother is treading on dangerous ground here. There is something sacred and soul-satisfying in the friendship. That other boy is Tommy's hero. No child is won by maligning his heroes. It would be wiser, by far, to fathom what your child sees in the other. For you may rest assured that he sees something to admire, some one phase of the other's personality which you do not or cannot find.

By bringing our prejudices into children's friendships we retard their social development. A child learns how to evaluate people from choosing his own friends. He judges according to his own standards. Why not find out what his standards are. You'll be surprised by the innocence of his intentions.

MODERN WOMEN

By MARIAN MAYE MARTIN

Society Girls Who Go Into Business Now Proving Alert and Competent At Their Jobs

WORD comes to us from all sides, including some very reliable sources, that the modern girl has gone quite definitely domestic. She no longer voices scorn of women who like to stay at home instead of seeking a career. In a world so cluttered with women seeking careers, and in a way of them never really catching up to anything worthy of the name, it certainly seems as though the modern girl was very wise.

"I wish society women and girls who didn't actually have to work would stay out of the business world," a woman said to me recently. "Competition is keen enough without having women who just work for the fun of it entering the race, and willing to work for pocket money instead of a living wage."

There's a great deal to this idea, but not all the women who say they are working "just for the fun of it" are being strictly truthful. They usually have a very definite purpose, and what it is they feel is no one's business. But whether the society girl has a right to enter the business world is beside the point I am trying to make, which is that having entered it, she makes a much better job of it than did her predecessors.

Not so very long ago the society girl in business wasn't worth her salt. Her job was merely a stopgap between her debut and her marriage. But now it is quite different. She has no intention of giving up a good job when she marries—at least, a great many women feel that way about it.

THE employer who is fortunate enough to get some one with a social background and who is really serious about her job has found a girl with poise and confidence. These are assets of no little value in the business world. Social contacts are definitely an asset in some lines of business. Reading over the Want Ad columns in any metropolitan daily one finds any number of firms advertising for women with social background and social connections. So it does not seem that there is a place for the society girl in business. Whether she makes good depends, as it does with every girl, on whether she is intelligent enough to grace the niche offered her.

Homes and offices would both be more efficiently run if they were manned only by those who had a gift or aptitude for the work they were doing. It's when good cooks and housekeepers decide to take up stenography and good executives insist on wasting themselves in the kitchen that things go haywire.

When a girl can follow her natural bent she is usually successful; the square pegs in round holes are the failures.

It's pretty hard to believe that all intelligent, modern young women have a taste for domestic science. Surely some of them must imply hate housework and are just specializing on it because it is fashionable to be domestic. If that is the only reason they have for going back to the kitchen they won't be much good after they get there.

There is as great a shortage of trained domestic help as ever, for, despite the domestic inclinations of the modern girl, she manifests a very strong prejudice against working in another woman's kitchen. So it is to be hoped there are going to be enough kitchens to go around. And it looks as though it would be up to the modern young man to provide them. But your modern young man seems to be of a different mind, nor is he displaying any unusual domestic symptoms. On the contrary, he seems to be anxious to marry the girl with whom he can establish a fifty-fifty household, if a room and a kitchenette can be dignified by that name.

So far as I can find, the modern male is trained to restaurant and even drugstore dining, and is inclined to think that a girl is dumb to waste her talents trying to do something that the canneries and delicatessens can do better. This generation of bachelors are not in a position very often to brag about the biscuits mother used to bake.
